

For nearly two decades, Donohue Brown Mathewson & Smyth LLC has been one of Chicago's pre-eminent civil litigation law practices. DBMS frequently and successfully tries complex, high-exposure cases in the country's most challenging jurisdictions. The firm focuses on the areas of professional liability, product liability, insurance coverage, commercial litigation and appeals.

DBMS' approach to litigation is highly responsive to the goals and needs of the clients. Each client and each case is treated uniquely as the firm and the client develop the best approach to litigation strategy.

DBMS is proud of its reputation among judges, colleagues and opponents as an aggressive and thorough firm that is highly professional in its conduct of litigation. The firm's superb record at trial encourages opponents to try and resolve matters early in the litigation process.
